- The solution offers greater financial control and visibility, more flexibility and added security
- The Preferred Service Provider program makes the product available to all ICBA members

MONETT, Mo., Nov. 2, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- Jack Henry® (Nasdaq: JKHY) announced today that JHA Treasury Management™ has been added to the Independent Community Bankers of America® (ICBA) Preferred Service Provider (PSP) program.

JHA Treasury Management is a comprehensive commercial banking platform designed to help community banks attract, serve, and retain larger, more complex business customers. The platform equips businesses with tools to manage their daily financial workflows, while creating opportunities for banks to grow deposits and generate fee income. Jack Henry also provides one-on-one consulting services to guide banks through product transitions and optimize their strategy.

The platform provides businesses with greater visibility and control over their finances, bringing payments, account and transaction management, and reporting into a centralized workflow. Businesses can process ACH and wire payments, manage and transfer funds across multiple accounts, and access customizable reports for greater insight into transactions and balances. Built-in fraud mitigation capabilities, including positive pay, account reconciliation, two-factor authentication, and security alerts, provide additional protection.

Jack Henry is seeing growing demand for its treasury management capabilities, signing 45 new contracts in fiscal 2026, up 25% from the prior year. The platform is also attracting larger financial institutions, with the average asset size of banks signing deals over the past two years reaching $2.1 billion, up 43% from fiscal years 2023 and 2024.

"As businesses scale and become more complex, they need a banking partner that can solve for their evolving needs," ICBA Senior Vice President of Innovation Operations Adam Mahone said. "Through this arrangement with Jack Henry, community banks can pair their trusted financial guidance with treasury management tools to help businesses manage payments, monitor cash flow and make informed decisions, while helping community banks strengthen these key relationships and create new opportunities for growth."

Theresa Anuszewski, SVP and Head of Commercial Banking at $6.5 billion Alpine Bank, said, "Jack Henry's treasury management solution has transformed our commercial banking offering. We're winning business today that we weren't winning three years ago, including large municipalities and corporations with complex needs. We've even had new customers coming from much larger banks tell us our platform is better. It allows us to go head-to-head with much larger financial institutions while delivering the high-touch service that sets us apart."

Jack Henry has been an ICBA Preferred Service Provider (PSP) for 17 years. Many Jack Henry digital banking, payments, lending, commercial banking, information security and technology, and operations solutions are included in the PSP program.

"Our longstanding relationship with ICBA reflects our shared commitment to helping community banks compete and thrive," said Erica Pilon, Vice President and Head of Corporate Strategy at Jack Henry. "Adding Treasury Management to the PSP program gives community banks an opportunity to compete for larger commercial relationships that have traditionally gone to bigger institutions. At the same time, businesses gain access to sophisticated capabilities from the financial institutions they know and trust."

JHA Treasury Management™ is now available to all ICBA members through the PSP program.
